WORK MANAGEMENT FOR YOUR BUSINESS

Work management is a key enabler for any successful business. It's about having a structured process for getting work (particularly maintenance and replacement work) done the right way, by the right people who have the right skills, the first time. It's about reducing down time of machinery, and reducing the amount of wasted time and effort by your skilled people. Work Management is about having a plan of work and sticking to it, whilst giving accountability and ownership of the plan to the people who will deliver it.

Here's an example of a simplified work management process.

Maybe it's time you found out if your work management process is effective?

Would you like to reduce your parts storage time/cost?

Would you like people to be more accountable for their own safety and the work they do?
